Privacy statement for website visitors of welkominutrecht.nu

The website of Welkom in Utrecht is secured and has an SSL certificate. The website uses cookies. Here you can read more about our cookie policy.

What are cookies?

Cookies are small (text) files that are placed on your computer, tablet, smartphone or other electronic device (hereinafter "computer") when you visit a webpage.

By placing a cookie on your computer, your computer can be recognised and information can be collected. This information can include: the IP address, data about surfing behaviour, such as the first, previous and current visit, the specific web pages that you have visited, the way you navigate through the website, the device you use and your settings.

Cookies have a certain period of validity from the moment they are placed on a computer. After the period of validity has expired, the cookie is deleted by your browser. For some cookies the duration of the browser session is the period of validity, but there are also cookies that remain valid for a longer period, so that they can be read during a subsequent visit to our website.

Functional cookies

Our website uses functional cookies from WordPress. These are necessary for a proper layout of and navigation on the website. Except for an IP address (for one session), these do not store any traceable personal data. Functional cookies are necessary for the use of the website and may be placed without permission.

Analytical cookies

With Google Analytics, Google places cookies on our website that provide insight into the use of the website. The data is sent to Google. With the information, the use of our website can be analysed and anonymous user statistics and reports can be generated. The cookies do not store any traceable personal data. These cookies therefore have little impact on your privacy and can therefore they can be placed on the website without permission. We do not use profiling. Profiling is the automated processing of personal data that is used, for example, to evaluate and try to predict behaviour.

Social media

Our website uses the Facebook integration. For this purpose, various cookies are placed which can be traced back to a person if this person uses Facebook, WhatsApp or Instagram. We have no control over these social media cookies, the data that is recorded with these cookies and the purposes for which the social media providers use the cookies and therefore cannot accept any responsibility or liability for social media cookies.

Who has access to the personal data?

Authorised employees of Welkom in Utrecht and the website administrator have access to the data collected by the cookies on our website.
